50-plus graduating from Excel Center on June 9

ANDERSON — Anderson's chapter of the Excel Center, Goodwill's tuition-free high school for adults, will recognize its graduating class in ceremonies at 6 p.m. June 9 at the Anderson City Building auditorium, 120 E. Eighth St.

Expected to participate in the event is Kent Kramer, CEO of Goodwill Central and Southern Indiana. Other dignitaries have also been invited.

A little more than 50 people will graduate through Anderson's Excel Center this school year. That includes 26 who have already received diplomas. Excel operates 11 locations in central Indiana. Its graduates have met state standards for a Core 40 high school diploma and many have earned college credit or an industry-recognized certification — all at no cost to them.

The centers offer resources such as free child care, transportation assistance, extended hours and year-round classes.
