Dr. Sheila Dollaske Promoted to Regional Director of Strategy and People Analytics at Goodwill

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. – Goodwill of Central and Southern Indiana recently announced it has promoted Dr. Sheila Dollaske to Regional Director of Strategy and People Analytics.

In this role, Dr. Dollaske is responsible for supporting the operationalization of Goodwill's strategic plan and will partner with leaders toward accomplishing the outlined objectives. Additionally, she will support Human Resources with implementing key initiatives, including leveraging data to drive decisions and supporting the build out of Goodwill's organization-wide people strategies.

Dollaske has been with Goodwill for six years, previously serving as Regional Director of Mission and Education as well as Director of School Development and Innovation. She also worked as an educational leader in the Chicago Public School and Indianapolis Public School systems for nearly a decade.

"A remarkable and caring leader in our community, Dr. Dollaske is unmatched in her commitment to helping others and making an undeniable impact wherever she goes," said Lisa Allen, vice president and chief human resources officer. "I look forward to working closely with her to drive results through Goodwill's strategic plan."

Dr. Dollaske's education began at Butler University, where she earned a bachelor's degree in biology. She quickly realized that her passions were within the education field, so she successfully applied and was accepted to Teach For America. She then pursued a Master of Arts in teaching from National Louis University before earning another master's degree in education from Columbia University in New York. Her ambitions led her to earn a third master's degree in strategic management from Indiana University's Kelley School of Business, and her Doctorate in Education from Indiana University Bloomington.
